WASHINGTON, D. C .- The official into the cost of maintaining a government-owned armor plate plant will begin probably Monday, as the special committee composed of Senator Tillman, Representative Padgett and Rear Admiral Strauss proposed to leave this city for Pittsburgh tomorrow night. The first plant to be examined will be the Carnegie mill, which has covered the sides of many an American ship with the toughest modern shellresisting material. Elisha Theall, clerk of the house naval affairs committee, will accompany the special investigating committee. Following the examination of the Carnegie plant the commission will examine the costs of operation and the Royal Cafe, everything the best at output of the Bethlehem and Midvale works, the other members of the trio which has supplied the navy with steel for years past.

The commission will make use of the material bearing on the cost of armor production already collected by the Navy Department and laid before pletely furnished cottages on the Congress when it was announced that beach; tropical surroundings; good the inquiry to be made now would not be limited in any way by what has 6012-1m gone before. A close study of every one of the practical phases of steel making will be made, with special Four-bedroom bungalow on Liliha st., reference to the difference between between Kuakini and Jude; $30 a the government requirements in the the government requirements in the month. Not First Investigation This is not the first investigation which the government has prosecuted. There have been other investigations. but the temper of the present Congress seems a little more inclined to the Young st., nr. Kaptolani, opposite actual establishment of a governmentowned plant. Every time the cost of a ton of armored steel is mentioned in Congress it is more than likely to pro-Five-room furnished cottage at King duce on outbreak in favor of owning a steel plant, to be operated by the navy department. The present contracts are for about $425 a ton for steel armor, which is slightly lower than previous contracts. Members of the House naval affairs committee are of the belief that the price allows a very considerable margin of profit. Congressmen interested in a government-owned plant do not believe it would be wise to have all armor steel
